(first name) (middle name) (last name)

As per section 4.3 in Appendix B of the IAP Manual – Fourth Edition, experience gained as an observer or by completing parallel documents may be granted under exceptional circumstances. Generally, experience gained as an observer involves indirect participation of Intern Architects AIBC to specific architectural experience. For example, Intern Architects AIBC may indirectly participate in a construction site visit and document their experience. They would then review and analyze their documentation with their Supervising Architects. For example, they may prepare their own version of field reports. Parallel documents may include Intern Architects AIBC reviewing past project documents and analyzing these documents, such as comments on the role of the architect.

Pre-approval is required to establish if the experience hours will be accepted. The Intern Architect AIBC must submit a request for approval to the Experience Review Advisory Group and include the following information.

1.0 Name of architect providing supervision of the work experience

2.0 Overview of the proposed work experience project.

3.0 The architectural experience categories for which experience will be gained as an observer or for which parallel documents will be completed.

4.0 Outline of specific activities that will be acquired by completion of the proposed experience gained as an observer or by completing parallel documents gained under the IAP Manual – Fourth Edition.

5.0 Summary of hours expected to be gained for each experience category and activity.
